Cooperation of the EESC with the Cypriot Presidency of the Council of the EU

1 January – 30 June 2026

A word from the President

The Cypriot Presidency of the Council of the European Union took place at a time when Europe continued to navigate an increasingly challenging geopolitical landscape. Guided by the motto "An Autonomous Union. Open to the World", Cyprus demonstrated that strategic autonomy and openness are complementary ambitions, while promoting a Presidency firmly anchored in European values, solidarity and resilience. Throughout these six months, the European Economic and Social Committee enjoyed an exceptionally close and constructive partnership with the Cypriot Presidency. Our cooperation began well before the official start of the Presidency and was built on mutual trust, openness and a shared conviction that organised civil society has an essential role to play in shaping Europe's future. A defining moment of this partnership was the extraordinary meeting of the EESC Bureau, held at the Presidential Palace in Nicosia in November 2025. The warm welcome extended by President Nikos Christodoulides and Deputy Minister for European Affairs Marilena Raouna reflected Cyprus's commitment to dialogue and demonstrated the importance it attaches to cooperation with the EESC and organised civil society.

This spirit of cooperation translated into tangible results. At the request of the Cypriot Presidency, the EESC prepared thirteen exploratory opinions covering issues of direct relevance to Europe's citizens: from affordable housing, energy poverty and water resilience to social inclusion and support for persons with disabilities. These contributions reflect the Committee's unique ability to bring the experience and expertise of organised civil society into the European policymaking process. Our dialogue was further strengthened by the participation of Deputy Minister Raouna in the EESC plenary session, where she presented the Presidency's priorities, reaffirming our common commitment to placing citizens at the heart of European decision-making.

Beyond our institutional cooperation, the Cypriot Presidency also highlighted the importance of Europe's rich cultural heritage in bringing people together. The cultural initiatives organised throughout the Presidency, including the Cypriot Evening hosted at the EESC, reminded us that the European project is built not only on policies and legislation, but also on our traditions and values.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all those who contributed to the successful partnership during the Cypriot Presidency. The achievements presented in this publication testify to what can be accomplished when European institutions and organised civil society work hand in hand. I am confident that the excellent cooperation established will continue to inspire our common efforts to build a stronger, more resilient and more inclusive Europe.

Groups' meetings in Cyprus during the Cypriot Presidency

Date and Location	Event
22/04/2026, Centre for Social Activities and Welfare of the Municipality of Larnaca, Larnaca	Civil Society Organisations' Group Extraordinary meeting took place in the form of a public conference entitled "Island of resilience – Cyprus' perspective on climate, sustainability and food security". The conference focused on key Presidency priorities, including water resilience, the island dimension in EU policies, food security, and biodiversity. The event brought together senior representatives of the Cypriot authorities, including Annita Demetriou, President of the House of Representatives, the Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Agriculture, Rural Development and Environment, senior officials from the Water Development Department, the Ministry of Finance and the Environment Department and the Mayor of Larnaca, alongside academics, civil society representatives and EESC members. It provided a structured forum for dialogue between the EESC and national stakeholders on policy issues of strategic importance to Cyprus and the EU. The meeting provided an opportunity to present and discuss the two exploratory opinions requested by the Cypriot Presidency: NAT/973 Water Resilience Strategy and European Climate Adaptation Plan and ECO/689 The Island Dimension in European Cohesion, Competitiveness and Sustainable Development Policies. Presented by their respective rapporteurs and Group III members, Anastasis Yiapanis and Ioannis Vardakastanis, the opinions served as the basis for dedicated panel discussions with Cypriot policymakers and helped frame exchanges on key Presidency priorities. They brought an organised civil society perspective to debates on drought, water scarcity, climate adaptation, food security, sustainable and resilient communities and the specific challenges facing island territories, while linking Cyprus' experience to wider EU policy discussions. At the request of the President of the House of Representatives during the conference, the Group III Cypriot delegation, composed of Anastasis Yiapanis and Panagiotis Champas, will present the conference outcomes to the Cypriot Parliament after the summer recess, further reinforcing the meeting's visibility and follow-up value.

07/05/2026, Employers Group Extraordinary meeting, Nicosia	In the framework of the Cyprus Presidency of the Council of the EU 2026, the EESC Employers' Group held a conference on "Autonomy through competitiveness: SMEs at the core of Europe's strategic preparedness". The conference discussed how SMEs can be the key to Europe's strategic preparedness with Michael Damianos, Minister of Energy, Commerce & Industry of Cyprus; Professor Nikos Varsakelis from Aristotle University of Thessaloniki; Demetris Georgiades, Chairman of the Cyprus Economy and Competitiveness Council; Michalis Persianis, President of the Fiscal Council of Cyprus; and Maria Heracleous, Former Representative of IMF in Cyprus, Former Board Member of Central Bank of Cyprus. The discussion examined how the EU's evolving focus on strategic autonomy and preparedness is reshaping the meaning of EU competitiveness, positioning it as a prerequisite for resilience, security, and sustainable growth. It was underlined that embedding preparedness into competitiveness policy requires enhancing SMEs' capacity not only to withstand shocks but to adjust and reposition quickly. Speakers highlighted that SMEs play a central role both as key drivers of employment, innovation, and value creation, and as actors exposed to structural constraints such as regulatory complexity, energy costs, financing gaps, and skills shortages. It was also noted that ensuring that they can invest and grow is essential to translate strategic autonomy into economic reality. At the same time, it was stressed that many Member States are approaching a critical moment on public debt, and therefore the debate should not focus only on how much governments spend, but on what they spend on. It was emphasized that investments that strengthen economic resilience, such as innovation, infrastructure and skills, should be incentivised. Access to finance was underlined as a core bottleneck. European venture capital lags far behind the US, pushing startups to relocate where funding is available. It was stressed that the Member States need to rethink incentives, including how taxation affects return on investment. It was also concluded that a single, unified capital market, with accessible retail entry points, could help redirect savings into European businesses. Press and Social media coverage: Press: 7 articles in Philenews (1), Cyprus Mail (1), Cyprus Inform (1), InBusiness News (2), Nomisma (1), and Innoserve Business Bulletin (1), in addition to the news item published by the member's organisation OEB and the press release by the Government of Cyprus. Social media: the event was promoted on all the Group's social media channels: LinkedIn, X (post 1 and 2 with thread), Facebook and Bluesky, in addition to the web/newsletter article.

02-03/06/2026, Cyprus Workers' Confederation SEK, Nicosia	Workers' Group Extraordinary meeting. The Workers' Group reaffirmed that Europe's competitiveness and resilience can only be achieved through a strong social foundation, built on collective bargaining, quality jobs, and robust public services. Drawing on discussions with Cypriot trade union representatives, government representatives including from the Ministry of Labour and Social Insurance, and labour relations experts, the Workers' Group highlighted that recent progress in social legislation demonstrates that European policies can deliver for the many—not just the few. However, these gains remain fragile in the face of ongoing challenges, including austerity pressures, rising living costs, geopolitical instability, and rapid technological change. The discussions included the All-Cyprus Trade Union Forum, where union representatives of the Republic of Cyprus and of the areas under Turkish occupation discuss common challenges for workers in both communities to protect working rights, organise common industrial actions and support each other, and keep channels open despite the lack of communication between the two sides at the official level. Speakers stressed the urgent need for a new policy push that places working people at the centre of EU action. It was also underlined that strong social dialogue at all levels—particularly tripartite frameworks involving governments, employers and trade unions—is essential to achieving fair wages, decent working conditions and sustainable reforms. A major concern raised was the growing gap between economic growth and workers' living standards. In Cyprus, as elsewhere, rising energy prices and inflation have placed a disproportionate burden on workers, while wealth concentration continues to increase. Climate change was identified as a growing threat to workers, particularly through increased exposure to extreme heat and its impact on productivity and health. The costs of inaction far outweigh the investments required for mitigation and adaptation. A just transition to climate neutrality must therefore ensure protection for the most vulnerable workers and households, while creating quality jobs and strengthening economic resilience.

A word from the Cypriot EESC Members

The Cypriot Members were honoured to contribute to the successful implementation of the Cypriot Presidency of the Council of the European Union and to work closely with the EESC throughout this important period. It was a privilege to showcase Cyprus' priorities and to highlight the values that shape our contribution to the European project: dialogue, solidarity, resilience and cooperation. We were particularly pleased to bring attention to issues that are of special importance to Cyprus, including the island dimension, water resilience, the Mediterranean partnership, enlargement and social cohesion.

For us, the Presidency was much more than a series of meetings and opinions. It was an opportunity to build bridges between European institutions, organised civil society and national stakeholders, while sharing our country's experience and perspective. We were especially proud to welcome colleagues to events organised both in Brussels and in Cyprus, where discussions with local authorities, social partners, civil society organisations and experts enriched the work of the Committee and demonstrated the value of direct engagement.

Preparing and coordinating the thirteen exploratory opinions requested by the Cypriot Presidency, together with the various conferences, Group meetings, cultural events and Presidency-related activities, required close cooperation between the Cypriot Members, the EESC administration, the Permanent Representation of Cyprus to the EU and many dedicated partners. The Presidency period was both demanding and rewarding, offering valuable experience and reaffirming the importance of teamwork, flexibility and careful preparation in delivering a successful programme.

Beyond the policy discussions, we were delighted to share a part of Cyprus' cultural heritage with our colleagues through the Cypriot Evening and the exhibition dedicated to Commandaria, creating opportunities to strengthen personal connections alongside our institutional cooperation. These moments reminded us that the European Union is built not only on common policies but also on mutual understanding and respect for our diverse cultures and traditions.

Looking back, we are grateful for the spirit of cooperation that characterised the entire Presidency. We would like to express our sincere appreciation to the EESC Members, the Committee's staff, the rapporteurs, advisors and all those who contributed to the successful organisation of the Presidency activities. We are proud of the high-quality opinions adopted during this period and hope that they will continue to contribute to future European policies.

We believe that the EESC made a meaningful contribution to the objectives embodied in the Presidency's motto, "An Autonomous Union. Open to the World.", through its exploratory opinions, stakeholder engagement and policy dialogue.

Above all, we are pleased to have strengthened the bonds within our EESC family and to have shared the Cypriot perspective with colleagues from across Europe.
